

Nr 24

Jordbruksutskottets betänkande angående uppskov med behandlingen av vissa till utskottet hänvisade ärenden.

Jordbruksutskottet har ifrågasatt uppskov till innevarande års riksdags höstsession med behandlingen av

dels följande motioner

1. 1973: 335 av herr Strömberg m. fl. (fp) om tillståndsskyldighet enligt miljöskyddslagen för väg- och flygplatsbyggen, m. m. och

2. 1973: 1412 av fru Mogård och herr Lothigius (båda m) om en parlamentarisk utredning för kartläggning av markresurserna m. m., dels följande under vårsessionen väntade ärenden, nämligen

3. proposition om ändring i miljöskyddslagen jämte de motioner, som kan komma att väckas i anledning av propositionen, och

4. proposition om vapenlagstiftningen jämte de motioner, som kan komma att väckas i anledning av propositionen, allt under förutsättning av att ärendena hänvisas till utskottet.

Vid sammanträde den 12 april 1973 har talmanskonferensen förklarat sig inte ha något att erinra mot de ifrågasatta uppskoven.

Under återopande av vad sålunda anförts får utskottet — som i betänkandet 1973: 6 framlagt förslag om uppskov med vissa ärenden — hemställa att riksdagen beslutar att till höstsessionen med innevarande års riksdag uppskjuta behandlingen av i det föregående angivna ärenden.

Stockholm den 26 april 1973

På jordbruksutskottets vägnar

NILS G. HANSSON

Närvarande: herrar Hansson i Skegrie (c), Mossberger (s), Persson i Skänninge (s),* Hedin (m), Jonasson (c), Magnusson i Tanum (s), Augustsson (s), Larsson i Borby (c),* fru Lindberg (s),* herrar Krönmark (m),* Takman (vpk), Berndtsson i Bokenäs (fp), Aberg (fp)* och fru Theorin (s).

* Ej närvarande vid betänkandets justering.

Individuals who are not yet fully developed and who are still in the process of learning to regulate their emotions and behavior.

The authors suggest that the most effective way to help these children is to provide them with a supportive and structured environment.

They argue that this environment should be one in which the children are encouraged to express their feelings and to learn to control them.

The authors also suggest that the most effective way to help these children is to provide them with a supportive and structured environment.

They argue that this environment should be one in which the children are encouraged to express their feelings and to learn to control them.

The authors also suggest that the most effective way to help these children is to provide them with a supportive and structured environment.

They argue that this environment should be one in which the children are encouraged to express their feelings and to learn to control them.

The authors also suggest that the most effective way to help these children is to provide them with a supportive and structured environment.

They argue that this environment should be one in which the children are encouraged to express their feelings and to learn to control them.

The authors also suggest that the most effective way to help these children is to provide them with a supportive and structured environment.

They argue that this environment should be one in which the children are encouraged to express their feelings and to learn to control them.

The authors also suggest that the most effective way to help these children is to provide them with a supportive and structured environment.

They argue that this environment should be one in which the children are encouraged to express their feelings and to learn to control them.

The authors also suggest that the most effective way to help these children is to provide them with a supportive and structured environment.

They argue that this environment should be one in which the children are encouraged to express their feelings and to learn to control them.

The authors also suggest that the most effective way to help these children is to provide them with a supportive and structured environment.

They argue that this environment should be one in which the children are encouraged to express their feelings and to learn to control them.

The authors also suggest that the most effective way to help these children is to provide them with a supportive and structured environment.

They argue that this environment should be one in which the children are encouraged to express their feelings and to learn to control them.